

Metro arrived with a fresh message right on cue with the Millennium. Ten years later as 2009 dawns, it's time to assess—and celebrate.

Each month of our 10th Anniversary year, Metro will highlight a different "vision" feature along with great content Metro readers have come to expect. We will cover each of the Triangle cities as well as Eastern North Carolina and the coast. Other features include special coverage of our MetroBravo Awards, a Real Estate Guide, Medical "vision", Fashion, Cultural Review, Education and a special Writer's Review Collectors Edition.

In ten short years the landscape has been literally transformed. This has occurred in the capital city, Durham, Chapel Hill and Cary the same. The surrounding towns have successfully maintained their very deliberately unique look and feel: Apex, Holly Springs, Wake Forest, Garner—all are part of the metropolitan footprint, distinctive and proud. Eastern North Carolina and the coast have also had remarkable transformations. All in all, we've done well, and Metro was there to chronicle in words and pictures our dramatic evolution into one of the most significant places on earth.

Go back with us, and then forward, with content tailored town by town and other features to reflect where we have been—and most importantly, where we will be in 2020.
